AWARDS

Recognising the importance of a philosophy of positive ageing

2011

Patron sponsor

Principal sponsors

Other sponsors

The Every Generation Positive Ageing Awards recognise the importance of a philosophy of positive ageing.

The Awards acknowledge the contributions of older individuals as well as programs, projects and organisations which realise and exemplify positive ageing. Just as people of all ages actively enjoy what interests them, many people experience ageing as an enjoyable, positive and valued experience. Notwithstanding disability and frailty, ageing is a time of personal fulfillment as well as a time of ongoing contribution to family and society. Award nominees will clearly care about older people and exhibit positive attitudes, a love of life, and a concern for others.

Are you eligible?

The Awards are open to South Australian individuals, groups and organisations. Previous Award recipients are not eligible for re-nomination in the same category within five years of winning their award.

Judging

The judging panel will include representatives from different community groups actively involved with older people. Finalists may be invited to attend an interview for judging purposes.

Nominations

Nominations are welcome from any member of the public and are to be made on the Awards Nomination Form (overleaf). Judges will require the names of two referees in addition to the nominator.

Publicity and promotion

It is anticipated that nominees will make themselves available for interviews and/or photographs as part of the promotional activities around these Awards.

Important reading!

Nominations can be accepted for more than one Award category by ticking each category box you are nominating for.

It is important that the nominees read the information contained in this brochure and sign in the designated spot.

Please supply supporting written information giving both a description of the nominee, and details of their activities and achievements.

Aveo Live Well Outstanding Achiever Award

This Award, sponsored by Aveo Live Well, recognises outstanding achievement and service to the community by an older person. It honours an individual who through their life and contributions portrays positive ageing values and attitudes.

The award acknowledges:

- > a person over 50 whose efforts and involvement in a voluntary capacity have benefited the entire community over many years.
- > a person who continues to contribute actively and selflessly to their community, and whose exceptional achievements are an inspiration to all.

beyondblue - the national depression initiative Every Generation Positive Images Award

This Award, sponsored by beyondblue - the national depression initiative, recognises programs and services which challenge stereotypic presentations of, and attitudes towards, older people.

It acknowledges pro-active and realistic attempts to see or to create more diverse and positive images of ageing within the community.

This could include initiatives which:

- > interact with older people in a positive way and offer older people the opportunity to participate in non-stereotypic activities
- > challenge ageing stereotypes through media presentations and promotional material.

Department for Families and Communities Every Generation 'for young and old' Award

This Award, sponsored by Department for Families and Communities, recognises programs in which both older and younger people participate.

It applauds intergenerational initiatives within the community which foster interaction between people of all ages and demonstrate positive ageing.

These intergenerational initiatives may be via:

- > the education system (primary, secondary or tertiary),
- > through community organisations eg seniors clubs, community centres, service clubs, aged care facilities etc
- > the business or corporate sector.

Retirement Village Association Every Generation Active Lifestyle Award

This Award, sponsored by the Retirement Village Association, recognises the outstanding achievements by a group or organisation to encourage older people to remain physically, mentally or socially active.

The recipient will:

- > have facilitated others in achieving positive ageing activities that enhance their wellbeing on an on-going basis
- > have demonstrated a positive attitude to promoting active lifestyles that encourage, motivate and support positive ageing
- > have made a significant contribution to active ageing within the community.

NASANSB Every Generation Creative Arts Award

This Award, sponsored by NASANSB, recognises an older person or organisation who has made an ongoing contribution to the cultural life of South Australia through involvement in the creative arts.

The recipient will:

- > have assisted others in their creative endeavours within the community
- > continue to pass their creative knowledge on to others, including to younger generations
- > have demonstrated an understanding of positive ageing values and ideals

The Creative Arts may include visual arts and crafts, music, dance, theatre, film, photography, literature and community cultural development.

Resthaven Every Generation Physical Activity Award

This Award, sponsored by Resthaven Inc., recognises the outstanding contribution by an individual to encourage older people to remain physically active.

The recipient will:

- > be aged over 50 years of age
- > be working in a voluntary capacity
- > have demonstrated a positive attitude to physical activity and personal fitness
- > have made a significant contribution to physical activities for older people within the community
- > be an excellent role model of the correlation between physical activity and wellbeing in ageing.
